christine royer

dedicating this book to christine royer, advisor to the class of 1970 and to elizabeth meyers, director of college activities, is a tribute to these women and their roles in giving added meaning, direction and subtle form to our lives at barnard.

a door that is always open . . . an interest in people that is so real that you cannot help but feel important . . . a never-ending line of students waiting impatiently, while inside the office, time is of no concern . . . a quick and ready smile occasioned by your retelling of some thing that has made you happy . . . a 25½ hour day . . . wisdom to see the answers but never to tell you what they are, to help you find them yourself . . . an English class alive with discussion and interest, alive with the excitement of learning . . . showing that the form you give your experience is what makes it count . . . helping you gently, wisely, patiently, to grow a little.

both share a deep commitment to the college, to the education it offers, and to its students. this book as a chronicle, however loose, of our experience at barnard college, belongs uniquely to them.

fall, 1966 . . . another freshman in the office of housing and college activities . . . warmth spread throughout the campus by students who came into contact with her . . . planning and coordinating the activities in the new mcintosh center . . . an office constantly crowded with students seeking advice, comfort and assistance . . . endless amounts of patience and understanding in any matters concerning students . . . ability to deal expertly with the problems that you cannot yourself handle . . . more important, ability to show you how to find the trouble and solve it by yourself . . . helping you, in ways not necessarily academic . . . to grow.

To the Members of the Class of 1970:

Your graduation from Barnard represents a personal achievement for each of you. While you were here you learned from classes, from people, from experiences, from the College. It was, I hope, a time of growth for you.

But, perhaps as important as your own development during your years here, you have shared with us a growth and maturing of the College. While the Class of 1970 has been enrolled Barnard has grown physically into the new science tower and college center; has expanded in the curricula areas of urban studies and ecology courses; and has increased in living area with the opening of Plimpton Hall.

My very best personal wishes to each member of the Class of 1970 for a future that will reflect the excellence of your college attainment and one in which you will continue to share Barnard's attainments with us.

SHAKESPEARE AND HIS STAGE

William Shakespeare was christened in Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-on-Avon, April 26, 1564. His birth is traditionally assigned to April 23rd. He was the eldest of four boys and two girls who survived infancy in the family of John Shakespeare, glover and trader of Henley Street, and his wife Mary Arden, daughter of a small landowner of Wilmcote. In 1568 John was elected Bailiff (equivalent to Mayor) of Stratford, having already filled the minor municipal offices. The town maintained for the sons of the burgesses a free school, taught by a university graduate and offering preparation in Latin sufficient for university entrance; its early registers are lost, but there can be little doubt that Shakespeare received the formal part of his education in this school.

psychology

lloyd t. delany

lloyd t. delany left an indelible impression on the lives of at least the twenty-one members of his "psychological analysis of racism" seminar. we all felt that we were on the brink of one of our most rewarding and meaningful experiences, and that we were about to develop relationships with a uniquely frank, compassionate and understanding individual. losing him was a bitter jolt for all of us.

he insisted that we call him lloyd rather than dr. delany. lloyd was a lot of people: writer, psychoanalyst, teacher, husband, father. his death was particularly bitter for us because of the sudden deprivation of the warm friendships we all envisioned developing with him.

lloyd was attempting to help his students to define racism and to understand the psychological mechanisms that operate in the racist individual. one could liken him to a ray of humanness piercing the vast darkness of the shallow, cold relationships that are typical of the barnard community. lloyd felt that barnard was in dire need of help and sacrificed a portion of his private life and private practice to come here. for the first time at barnard, black and white students met in a classroom setting to openly discuss racist issues, and were able to leave after each meeting feeling that something had really been accomplished.

barnard has suffered a terrible loss, much more than it knows, possibly much more than it will ever know: lloyd t. delany.
